

A ST MATTHEW IN RELATION TO ST MARK

Table A: Synoptic relationship chart for St Matthew and St Mark. It lists chapters 1-28 for both gospels, with colored bars indicating shared or unique content. For example, Chapter 1 includes 'Genealogy of Jesus' and 'Birth of Jesus', which are shared with St Mark.

DIAGRAM OF SYNOPTIC RELATIONSHIPS

B ST MARK

Table B: Synoptic relationship chart for St Mark. It lists chapters 1-16, with colored bars indicating shared or unique content. For example, Chapter 1 includes 'John the Baptist' and 'The Temptation', which are shared with St Matthew and St Luke.

Signs and Abbreviations. v. vv., verse(s). Verse references enclosed ( ) are textually doubtful. Within the columns the first verse of each passage is indicated. ≡ indicates verbal correspondence. ≡≡ indicates verbal correspondence in small degree or with important differences in substance. [ ] enclose references to remotely connected passages. ||, |||, parallel passage(s) as indicated by the connecting lines and the references alongside the columns. **, doublets, i.e. passages (chiefly short sayings) found more than once in the same Gospel. Doubles are indicated on the left of columns A, B, C, and on the right of column D. The ||s in the other Gospels to one member of the doublet are indicated in each case. To find all the ||, refer to both members of the doublet.

C ST LUKE

Table C: Synoptic relationship chart for St Luke. It lists chapters 1-24, with colored bars indicating shared or unique content. For example, Chapter 1 includes 'Genealogy of Jesus' and 'Birth of Jesus', which are shared with St Matthew and St Mark.

D ST MATTHEW IN RELATION TO ST LUKE

Table D: Synoptic relationship chart for St Matthew and St Luke. It lists chapters 1-28 for both gospels, with colored bars indicating shared or unique content. For example, Chapter 1 includes 'Genealogy of Jesus' and 'Birth of Jesus', which are shared with St Mark.